Sarah joined Tonkon Torp's Estate Planning Practice Group in 2017, after spending three years at the firm as a litigation associate. She is now applying her business law background to helping clients with wills, trusts and succession planning.

As a litigator, Sarah represented business clients in a wide range of matters, including breach of contract, shareholder disputes, and products liability. In addition, Sarah has experience working on agency rule challenges, agency appeals, and various other administrative law matters.

Prior to joining Tonkon Torp, Sarah was an Assistant Attorney General in the Oregon Department of Justice, where she worked in both the Appellate Division and the Attorney General's Office. A graduate of University of Oregon School of Law, Order of the Coif, Sarah served as a judicial law clerk for the Honorable David Schuman of the Oregon Court of Appeals and an extern to the Honorable Ann Aiken in the Federal District Court of Oregon, Eugene. As a law student, Sarah was a fellow in the Wayne Morse Center of Law & Politics and managing editor of the Journal of Environmental Law and Litigation.

An Oregon native, Sarah is an avid runner. She competes in half and full marathons with Team in Training, a community of athletes who get coaching and support in exchange for their commitment to raise funds for blood cancer research and patient services for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. Over six seasons she has participated in long-distance races throughout the West, raising over $12,000 for this important cause and making lifelong friends.
